WORK OF THE NAILERS,

'The week's campaign has not improv ed the standing of the Natiers, three games having been won and as many lost. But as the entire six were with New Castle, the leaders, the result is as good as had been anticipated and "no kick is comin"." The Intelligencer has coupled the batting and fielding average up to and including Saturday's game. In betting, Taylor continues in game. In batting, Taylor continues in the lead and Coyle remains in second place, while O'Brien has improved his average and is in third position. Lyons made the most marked improvement in batting, and is now fourth on the list.
Messett's batting away from home was gilt-edged, and the little catcher is now sixth. The team's batting has fallen off elightly, but the Nallers still lead opposing teams by a comfortable margin.

BASE BALL COMMENT.

The Nailers lost the third game of the series with New Castle on the home grounds. Saturday afternoon. Easton started off poorly, two errors by Lyons and one by Taylor, allowed the scoring of five runs. For the visitors, Hickman was in fine fettle and let the Nailers down with seven hits. Easton, too, after that disastrous first, pitched glit edged ball, the Quakers finding him only five times after the first.

Manton M. Scott, of the Bethany college base ball team of 1835, calls the Intelligencer's attention to an error in Friday's issue, when speaking of Hewitt's prowess it stated that he pitched the West Virginia University to an unbroken string of victories that year, Bethany, college won the only game against Hewitt carly in the season at Fairmont, the score being 4 to 2. Pollard, late of the Springfields opposing Hewitt. A few weeks later Hewitt turned the tables with a decisive victory for the University. It was an inadvertent error, as the Intelligencer remembers both instances. Bethany's green and white triumphed over the old gold and blue a few weeks ago again.

Garvey won his first victory against Hewitt last Friday. Two years ago the auburn-haired lad twirled for Holy Ghost college, and went up against Hewitt twice going down to defeat by the narrow margin of one run each time. In last year's Inter-state, Garvey falled again but the victory, long delayed, came at last,

All day these farmers came and went. The feeling of anger was so manifest that when Deputy United States Marshal F. M. Clark, arrived, in response to the telegram from United States Commissioner Funck, to make the arrest, it was decided that it would not be safe to bring Mr. Johnson through the streets to the office of the commissioner, and that officer and the deputy marshal therefore drove to the residence of Mr. Johnson and the deputy marshal served the warrant on film.

When Bank Examiner Calvell said down $100,000 worth of forged notes before President Johnson and said:
"Mr. Johnson, you signed those notes?" the answer was given without tremor, "I did."

The expert said that certain book-keepers in the bank knew of the president's crime, but the false entries being made by the president himself saves them from the law.

The warrant was read to Mr. Johnson in the presence of his wife, and she was by far the most collected of the few who witnessed the arrest. As the warrant was read and Deputy Marshal Chark said, "Mr. Johnson, I place you under arrest," the ex-banker looked him squarely in the face, and, without a tremor in his volce or the change of a muscle of the face, said very quietly: "Very well, Mr. Clark, I am ready to abide by whalever course you think best."

The prisoner waived formal arraignment and preliminary hearing, and the question of the amount of the bond then came up. This matter had evidently been talked over before, for the commissioner without hesitation, fixed it at $25,000.

a companion had plotted the murder of Mrs. Lewis, for whose death James M. Gordy is to hang on June il. The story, comes from Gordy's cell, and he says that he has been assured that his attorney has the letter and that the case is to be investigated.
Gordy talks as though he was firmly convinced that the writer can, and will be traced, as he says he has an idea who the parties are, It is in keeping with the theory advanced by him in an interview on Tuesday last, when he stated that he suspected certain persons in Newark, N. J., of having worked up the job and personated him, as they knew all about his private affairs. He said the letter states that there were two in the plot; that they induced Mrs. Gordy to convert everything she had two in the plot; that they induced Mrs. Gordy to convert everything she had into cash, even her furniture, which was sold to a dealer whose name is given; that one of them married her, then brought her down into Delaware as described at the trial; that the accomplice, who had gone before, met them at the river and took charge of her after she was placed in the boat, and then finished the murder the other had begun.

At the trial the question was argued At the trial the question was argued as to whether one man could have done all it was claimed Gordy did it the time allotted him. Especially was it doubted whether he could have rowed the boat a mile up the creek and disposed of the body in the manner described in the short time the woman's companion that night is known to have spent on the river.

frequently pronounced incurable. It is not. It may be stopped—warded off—at almost any stage. But if the sufferer neglects to take the proper remedy in the proper way, death is swift and certain.

Consumption like almost all manner of dinease has its inception in a trio of all-embracing disorders. They are 'imperfect digestion,' 'firregular bowels,' and 'impure blood.' They are triplets. One is dependent for existence upon the other. Cure one, cure all. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best of all known remedies for this disorder. It corrects disordered digestion, invigorates the liver, regulates the bowels, makes the blood pure, and the uerves strong. It is the great blood mivigorates the nerves. It tones up body and brain. It cures uinjety-eight per cent. of all cases of consumption.

the garden. It is a miracle that I am cured. Health and happiness formed a partner-ship in the garden of Eden. It has never been dissolved. You cannot have one with-out the other. Constipation is the usual cause of ill-health. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are tiny, sugar-coated grasules. They cure constipation. One is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe. Druggists sell them.
